Master's degree
Modern and Contemporary History
The main objective of the curriculum for the Master's degree in Modern and Contemporary History (MHMC) is to provide students with a substantial training that will allow them to continue with their development as researchers of the history or other social disciplines.

The MHMChas an academic program and a full-time staff of research-professors highly specialized, that will allow students to deepen their knowledge as well as reinforcing theory and methodology areas to face the research process.

Students must be able to create original works and dissertations based on different sources that, with a thorough analysis, will provide and enrich knowledge in the different fields of historical research developed in Mora Institute.

Our graduates will be able to perform in research and teaching fields, since having acquired the proper skills and knowledge they are able to join excellence academic institutions, generating new knowledge and contributing to build a plural view from their research and teaching activities.

Applicant profile

Our curriculum is aimed to historians or students from related disciplines, who wish to undergo a thorough study about different problematics comprising modern and contemporary history of Mexico, the United States, Latin America and the Caribbean. It is imperative to be proficient in English in order to read and comprehend texts.

In Mora Institute, we strive to form high-level researchers who distinguish themselves for their ability to perform innovative studies founded in solid theoretical and methodological proposals, in addition to their profound critical analysis. In this regard, the reflection ability, the study and contextualization of historical facts are required. It is also necessary to be creative, imaginative and honest to elaborate and develop an original and unpublished research project that shall be fluently written and with a correct narrative.

Research guidelines

1. Research guidelines
2. Economic history
3. Social and cultural history
4. Urban and regional history
5. International Studies and history
   (Latin America, the United States and the Caribbean)
6. Oral history

For more information, visit our website: http://www.mora.edu.mx/Docencia/maestriaHistoriaModerna

Curriculum

First Semester

1. Theory of History
2. History of Mexico I: From Bourbon Reforms to the 1857 Constitution
3. History of the United States I: From the foundation of the Thirteen Colonies to 1897
4. History of the Caribbean and Latin America I
5. Thesis Seminar I

Second Semester

- History of Mexico II: From the Liberal Reform to the Revolution
- History of the United States II: From the War against Spain to present times.
- History of the Caribbean and Latin America II
- Specialization Course I
- Thesis Seminar II

Third Semester

- History of Mexico III: 1920-2000
- Specialization Course II
- Thesis Seminar III

Fourth Semester

- Thesis Seminar IV

During the first three semesters of the program, the student will also take language (English or French) and writing workshops.
Information:

School Services Office
Tel. 55983777 ext. 1101, 1111, 1174, 1125 and 1127
Fax. (55) 5563 7162
Opening times: Monday to Friday from 9:00 to 18:00 hours (GMT)
Email address: sescolares@mora.edu.mx

Academic management:
Tel. 55983777 ext. 1174
Email address:chistoria@mora.edu.mx

Dr. José María Luis Mora Research Institute
Plaza Valentin Gómez Farías, N° 12, col. San Juan Mixcoac
03730, Mexico City
http://www.mora.edu.mx/Docencia/MaestriaHistoriaModerna

@institutomora /Institutomora1

Twice-yearly admission period (numbered years).

www.mora.edu.mx

CONACYT
Consejo Nacional de Ciencia y Tecnología